up

MR. ROBERT DERONDA, the new principal, joins the school in late October. Mr. Garnett, assistant superintendant and acting principal, introduces Mr. DeRonda to Mrs. Barbara Story's math class.

MR. GARNETT introduces the first assembly of the 1980-1981 school year. Mr. Garnett was acting principal until a new man was found for the job. The senior class sat as a group, one of their senior privileges, and listened while Mr. Garnett honored past teams with banners to be placed in the gym.

What was UP at James Monroe? Togetherness

STUDENTS CHEER ON the basketball team from the stands.

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA never had it so good as the James Monroe Marching Band did its thing at the World Music conference.

MR. WADDELL leads the varsity football team in a chant at a pep rally. Togetherness was essential to make a winning team.

NO NINETY POUND WEAKLINGS existed as a part of the James Monroe student body. The weight room helped build Mr. Universes for James Monroe.

What's UP in Student Life?

THESE FOUR MUSICAL MEN try out for parts in the senior musical, "The Music Man." Scott Acey received the lead as Professor Harold Hill, and Jeff Haney, Troy Westman and Chris Duggins were part of the barber shop quartet.

Homecoming Rain falls but spirit doesn't

Hats, jerseys, t-shirts, and socks made up the outfits for Homecoming week. Each day students wore a different article of clothing to show their spirit. Posters dressed the halls as cheerleaders challenged each class to wallpaper the halls with signs. Each class displayed their skills in interior decoration, but the Freshman class received recognition for their designs in the new wing.

"Homecoming means traditionally the last home game of the football season. It also signifies the last game for the seniors on the team. This year, however, the meaning has changed a little, but everything will go on as usual." Senior Chris Duggins, tackle on the Varsity football team, expressed his feelings about Homecoming 1980. The stars shined, but the sun didn't—things didn't go on as usual. People thought all day "don't rain on my parade," but it did.

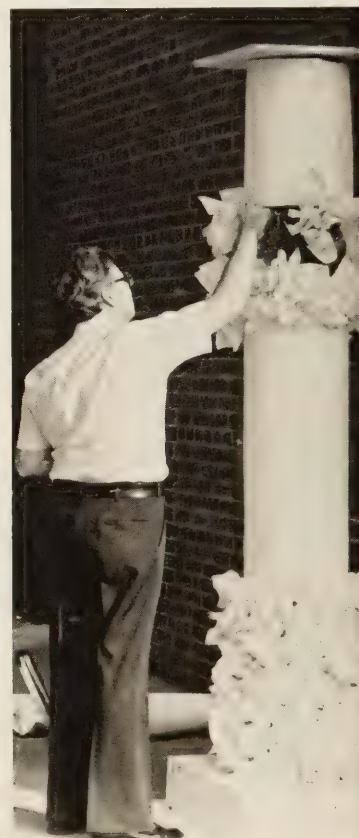

The rain dampened a few floats but was not able to dampen anyone's spirits. The GAA members housed their float in a garage in King George County, only to find a week's work of tissue paper wilted in the rain. Yellow dye ran on the FBLA's Cadillac. The Latin Club tried to protect their tissue-papered Roman Columns with plastic trash bags. A soggy parade splashed down Washington Avenue to Maury Stadium for the pep rally. For the first time, the fourth, fifth, and sixth graders were missing because of the closing of Maury School. The rain fell, Jayem students cheered, Charles Truslow read Kevin Poole's poem to predict victory, Mr. Garnett honored Mrs. Armstrong, the band played, and we got ready for the homecoming game.

Mr. Garnett said the game would be played in spite of the rain and it was. The weather cooperated and it was a dry, clear night. By halftime a muddy Jayem team wore victory—a landslide.

FIRST PLACE WINNER FLOAT, the Latin Club float prepares to voyage down Washington Avenue with Kim Crist, Mark Surles, Robert Owens, and Frankie Wheeler.

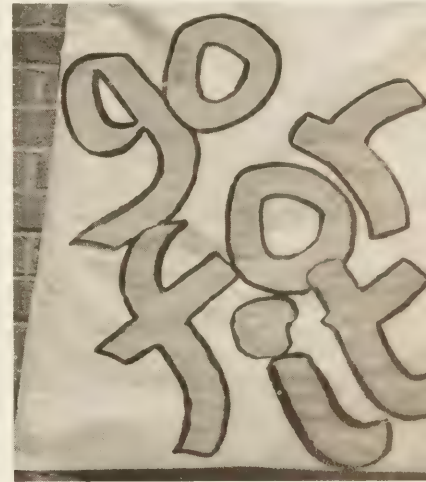

MR. FRED LANDIS, sponsor of the Latin Club, tucks some tissue paper in one of the Roman columns for the Latin Club float. Club members worked after school all week to complete the float.

VARSITY and junior varsity cheerleaders jump for joy over the 53-6 victory over Louisa at the homecoming game.

SIGNS DECORATE the halls during homecoming week.

INTO EVERYONE'S LIFE a little rain must fall. Cheerleaders Teresa Kinner, Winnie Stone, and Beth Lanford keep up their spirit in spite of wet hair and clothes.

FIRST PLACE WINNER FOR CARS in the homecoming parade, the band car, a convertible, waits in the rain. Liz McMullen drives the star-studded car which echoes the dance theme, "Shining Star."

THE RAIN does not get the Varsity Football team down during the pep rally at Maury. Greg Calamos, Todd Mitchell, Lance Ellis, and Joe Brown smile as the rain falls.

HISTORY CLASS teaches students about their "roots."

What's in Classes, Clubs, Teachers?

Lots of up and coming events happened in the 1980-1981 school year for Jayem students and staff. New faces showed up in the halls: Mr. Garnett started the year as acting principal and at the end of October, Mr. DeRonda joined the team as its principal. The Class of 1984, cocky and ready to go, were some of the new faces. Seniors got ready to pack up and leave James Monroe: "Senioritis" struck and the class of 1981 was tempted to goof off during the home stretch to graduation. It was hard to handle classes, clubs, teachers, and senior musical all at once; some students felt like a one-man band trying to juggle all his instruments, but the final product, The Music Man, was worth the trouble.

THE OFFICE AIDES' FLOAT floats down Washington Avenue on a rainy homecoming afternoon.

COACH LANFORD AND OUR NEW PRINCIPAL, Mr. DeRonda, open a Pandora's box of gifts from Park View. Spirit was up to win the regional playoffs.

DONALD HICKS GRINS and waits in his advanced English class for the bell to ring for next period. He looks like he's up to something.

MR. JOHNNY JOHNSON, art teacher, and Rhonda Prasse ponder over an art project.

CUTTING AND SNIPPING, Mark Shepard prepared a masterpiece.

AN ART STUDENT prepares an album cover original.

For Art's Sake

MARK SHEPARD shows his skill with the scissors in art class.

FUTURE MICHELANGELOS prepare canvases for Sights and Sounds, the fine arts display presented every spring. Students with exceptional work in art have their work displayed in the halls.

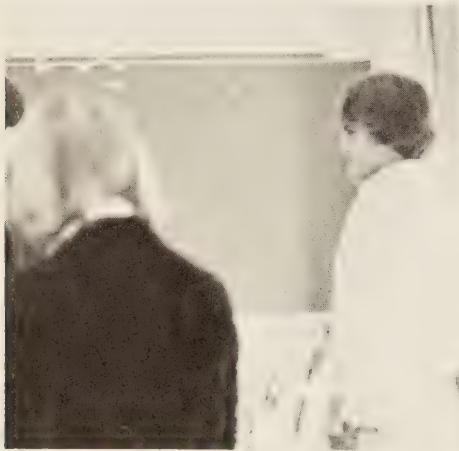

MR. HALL emphatically clarifies a point while Chriss Duggins looks on.

THE CLASS act as audience for Beth Lanford.

VICE MEYER, Tammie Gallahan, and Keith Chestnut wait on mock congress to get started.

SENATOR FROM IOWA, the honorable Scott Acey, argues his bill.

BETH LANFORD presents her bill during fourth period mock congress.

VIC MEYER presses his point in the argument.

Students take over Congress

Students at James Monroe High School had the power to make laws for six weeks during December and January. Senior Government classes participated in Mock Congress and learned the principles of Parliamentary Procedure and the steps a bill takes from its birth and introduction to (hopefully) growing up to be a law of the land.

Senior legislators did everything from abolishing the electoral college to raising the speed limit to 90 mph to declaring war on Iran.

BERN MAHON explains his points.

Running and Resting

GARY RICHARDSON passes through the lunch line.

STEVE DALEY catches up on the news in the library during his study hall.

FRESHMAN AND SOPHOMORE girls run the "600" to pass physical fitness tests.

ART STUDENTS gets ready to begin class.

JUD SOKOL looks around class to see what's going on.

CHARLES WILLIS Looks forward to "Greek Week" when he goes to college. He leans and rests against the bleachers in the gym.

Looking Around

SENIOR GERIANNE NEEDHAM explains a problem in math class.

COMPUTER CLASS was an interesting way to use math skills.

COACH AND GUIDANCE COUNSELOR JOE LANFORD rests from his two jobs.

JAMES COMERFORD Looks over his schedule with guidance counselor Mattie Smith.

MRS. LOU CRAULE "throws a few curves" in geometry class.

MRS. STORY watches a student do a problem at the board while Charles McDaniel watches our photographer.

MRS. THOMAS AND MRS. STAMEY talk over the schedule for the day.

It's Our Business

Teachers and administrators helped students create clubs that added to the daily 8:15 to 2:40 six period day routine. Besides the activities of the school — mock congress, moot court, filmstrips!, art projects, reports, tests, quizzes, research papers, and videotapes — students worked on projects to raise money for the prom and band trip to Georgia. Seniors got ready for the Senior trip with their fund raising projects: the Senior musical and the Senior raffle. The National Honor Society brought many smiles to students and teachers as they sold and delivered their carnations for Valentine's day. Not all projects were "to help themselves"; the FBLA held a sports-a-thon to raise money for the March of Dimes.

MR. DERONDA helps out at the FBLA March of Dimes Sports-a-thon.

FBLA Members participate in the sports-a-thon for the March of Dimes.

JULIA FISCHER hands out the prizes and collects the money for winning the events.

CHRIS DUGGINS hunts and pecks at his typewriter and wonders if future business leaders have to go through with this.

MR. JOHN COLEMAN, chaplain supervisor for St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Washington, D.C., gets ready to deliver an introductory lecture on mental illness for the MOVE program. MOVE did a series on mental health, blues, religion, and psychology. MOVE is a program for the gifted and talented.

ELLEN O'BRIAN AND LINDA FIELDS help serve the Evaluation Committee in "The Nook." Food Service classes provide yummy choices for teachers on Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

Gastronomic delights

STEPHANIE JOHNSON prepares food for "The Nook."

When students on the second floor smelled wonderful things coming from somewhere — and it was not from the cafeteria — it was from the food service class.

Students in the class learn basic food preparation skills and the advanced students learn that there's more to food than a Big Mac. They learned about proper diet and nutrition as well as fancy and delicious menus to prepare.

Armstrong Night at Maury Stadium.

To Mrs. "A," With LOVE: She's Something Special

MRS. ARMSTRONG and Mrs. Stamey chat about the rainy weather for the homecoming parade.

Lots of love, Mrs. Armstrong, from the Class of 1982. The Juniors, the last class to be taught, guided, and loved by Mrs. Armstrong after 43 years of teaching, found 'Mrs. A' to be very special. The Class of 1983 expressed their feelings in their own words:

She cares.

She's special because she's strick enough to get the point across, but understanding enough to help when you don't understand things.

She makes people laugh with her views: being truthful about people and things that bother her.

She is special in a way that she loves what she's doing and she loves her classes.

She is unique — it's a miracle she kept up with it as long as she has. She deserves a pat on the back!

It is often hard to see through Mrs. Armstrong's gruff exterior . . . I've had some good experiences with her in extracurricular activities, and I find she is very special. I feel not enough students have the opportunity to see her relating to students in a happy manner. I think she's miss J.M., even though she refuses to admit it.

Mrs. Armstrong's class is one of my most interesting classes. She has a lot of spunk and makes it an interesting and eventful class. She is full of personality and will always be young. I'm pretty lucky to have had her, and I pity the underclassmen who will not get the chance to have her for history.

She is fair and intelligent. You can learn a lot from her and trust her.

She looks out for her students and helps them as much as possible.

She takes time to make sure that everybody knows the material. She is fair and thorough.

She has a way of making you feel good in class. Being so knowledgeable in what she is doing, she can make it fun.

She has been a teacher a long time and deserves a lot of credit for putting up with us.

She has taught for a long time and has been dedicated to the football players and cheerleaders.

She is strict, yet compromising; stern yet understanding; old-fashioned, yet she is on top of today's world. She is, indeed, unique.

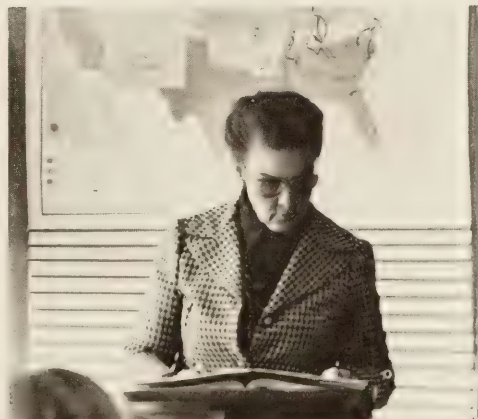

She treats everyone fairly and as adults; she does what she believes is helpful for the student and not herself.

Mrs. Armstrong loves to teach students. She is an excellent teacher — and very nice.

MRS. ARMSTRONG takes role at the beginning of her advanced U.S. history class.

What's Up in Sports?

Speaking of sports, James Monroe had two Battlefield District championships in the 1980-81 season: the Varsity Football team and the Girl's Gymnastics Team. Boy's Basketball and Girl's Field Hockey teams received second place honors in the district. The junior varsity sports prepared to be the victorious teams of '82, '83, and '84. Spring Sports were off and running to tend the 1980-81 season.

What was up in sports? Spirit, effort, and physical fitness! Boys and girls showed their abilities and fellow students backed them up — whether they were winners or losers. The football team found out that losing by one point in the regional playoffs was still losing, but after a season of BIG wins, losing by one was not that bad. All J.M. players felt like winners.

SENIORS Janet Anderson and Melissa Maynard are #1 in spirit and effort on the girl's basketball team.

Basket Cases

The girl's varsity basketball team, made up of three seniors, Melissa Maynard, Janet Anderson, and Margo Brown; six juniors, Letitia Robinson, Cheryl Carter, Angie Brown, Val Rosbach, Frankie Wheeler, and Helene Bundy; and one sophomore, Novella Jackson, finished their season with an 11-7 record. None of the girls warmed the bench in their aggressive season.

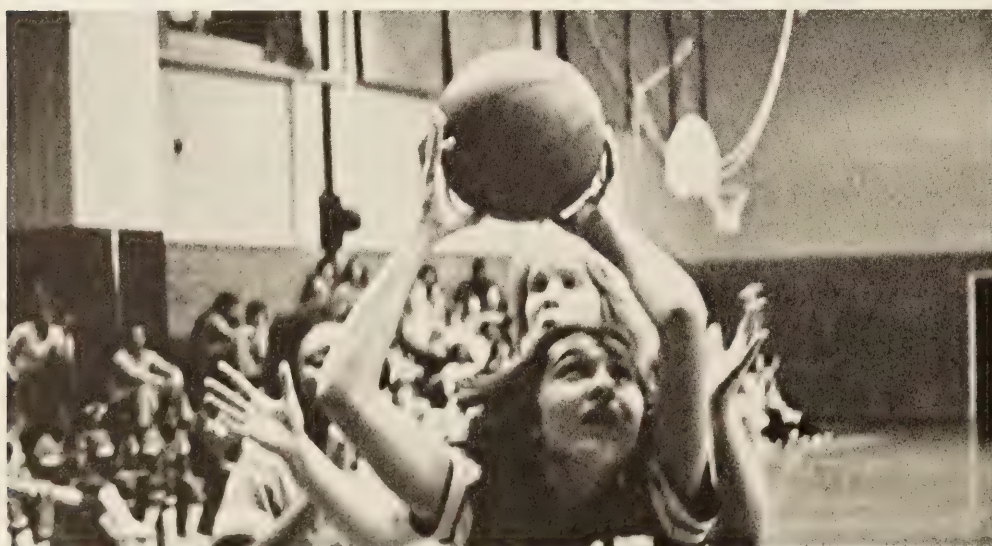

Janet Anderson, a veteran with four years on the girl's basketball team, describes the most exciting game of the season for her: "The most exciting game so far this year was the King George game at King George. We were down by about 16 after the half but came back to tie the game at the end of regulation time which then sent the game into overtime. But we lost." Janet, who averages about 20 points a game and has scored as high as 30 points a game, is the JM star. She enjoyed playing because she "liked the game, liked representing the school — plus it's a good way to stay in shape." Janet did not mind the practices after school every day except on game days and the weekend practices. Janet noticed that there usually aren't many people in the stands at the girl's basketball team, but the loyal fans — parents, relatives, and a few students, — who came seem to enjoy the game and sometimes really "get into the game which makes us feel better that there is someone up there who cares." Faithful fans saw and enjoyed good basketball being played.

Center Melissa Maynard averaged 15 points a game and scored an individual season high of 37 points in the district semi-finals in Culpeper. The Blue Devils overcame the Yellow Jackets 81-72 but as JM Coach Cathy Bauer said, "The last time we were here we lost by 40." Melissa Maynard explained that Culpeper had been the state Champion whereas the JM team is new and lacks experience. In spite of their "newness" the team worked together to finish a well-played season.

Cocky Hockey

How'd you get so cocky? It's cause we play hockey! And play they did. The jayvees started off with a fast and furious season, hoping for only wins.

When tryouts began in August, 39 girls showed up for practice but only about $\frac{2}{3}$ could be chosen. "It's very tough," said Miss Ford, Junior Varsity coach, "the hardest job a coach has is cutting a team."

Once the team was chosen, each girl put in two hours of exhausting practice a day. When asked why anyone would do such a thing, Anne-Marie Tracy replied, "to prove I could do it, to see if I could stick with it. It's a challenge. I loved it."

During the season many injuries kept quite a few of the players on the side line. As Betsy McDaniel stated "It was the year of the knee." These players didn't stop working though: they advised their team-mates on various plays and enthusiastically cheered them on. The injuries greatly weakened the offensive side, but that didn't stop the other girls from working harder.

Spirit had much to do with the way the team played, "we had to get psyched! We had to feel good so we could play well," said Betsy McDaniel. Equally important to team spirit was the togetherness of the team. "As we got to know each other we began to work together as a team. We began relying on each other, knowing that someone would be there to back us up," commented ninth-grader Sarah Lanford.

The season ended just as it began: with the team fired up and a record of 4-4-2.

What's UP With People?

Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors, 680 strong, made up the people of James Monroe High School in 1980-1981. Different events came up in each class's activities: Freshmen were the rookies of the high school, but they learned quickly; the Sophomores were "driven"; Juniors were let loose at lunch and caught prom fever; the Seniors had their own disease: "Senioritis" — its cause was graduation!

A new class joined the ranks of J.M.: the regional class. Their cheers joined other students at pep rallies, and soon they began to feel at home in room 145.

SENIORS Carolyn Cocke and Scott Acey, Marian the Librarian and Professor Harold Hill, rehearse their parts for the Senior musical, 'The Music Man.'

Class of 1981 leaves last will and testament

I, Don McLaurine, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Darryl Coleman a new pair of matching socks and the common sense I have to make it through life, because he needs all the help he can get.

I, Roy Haddick, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave one full grown alligator to each prep, a new brain for all the heads, a big thanks to all the cool straight people who never put me down, and a kiss to Mollie.

I, Trent Ware, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Sarah Lanford my locker with $\frac{1}{2}$ inch of roaches, and to Marty Yates my dirty socks and Gators.

I, Matt Haney, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave long, hard nights of study to the underclass girls.

I, Tammie Gallahan, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my crutches to the gymnastics team in hopes that no one else needs them, to Debbie a smiley face, to Tracie a new monkey, and to Jimmy all my advanced English notes, a new mug and all my love.

I, Carolyn Cocke, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave all my ways to get through Mr. Burch's class to my sister Amy, and to Billy M. and John C. one chance to retrieve their paper. If you blow it guys, you blow it! Sorry!

I, Chris Danahy, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Wally King, the Chickies, to Charles McDaniel, a golf glove, Jose Gaspar and Double Tschavarski, to John Castles, Old Taylor and some hay, and to Levie Smith, an egg.

I, Donna Everett, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Karen Bowen, a lot of luck and "the fense", to Don I leave a 360 in Confederate Ridge on 12/31/80, and to Mark Geslock, I leave a lot of thanks for all your help.

I, Mollie Raymond, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Sara Durcan and Colleen Sutherland, a lifetime tryout sheet for all plays at J.M. and the ability to keep up the Thespian name, to Lepha Sears, a manilla envelope care package and memories of a Rock-n-Roll summer, to Janet Anderson a full basketball scholarship to G.M.U., to Melissa Maynard, three blue milk crates from Giant Food and the entire works of Kahlil Gibran, and to Roy Haddick, the strength and courage to "break on through" to the other side and three words I don't have to say.

I, Scott Pacello, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Charles McDaniel and "the rest of the guys" my 32/45 club T-shirt, to Molly, one dozen roses and all of my love, and to the rest of J.M. my geometry grades. Geeez! You can have 'em.

I, Chris Glover, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave one unused comb.

I, Todd Mitchell, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Booger, Wad, Pickle and Billy Dee that big one, and to the upcoming football team the strength to stay a winner.

I, Nadine Garnett, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my brother, Ivan, the ability to graduate with his class, to Barbara R., as much fun in her senior year as I had in mine.

I, Beth Lanford, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Robyn Ramer, the hockey songs, a gas charge card (for various trips), a list of weekend activities in the 'burg', p.p. cup and a.g. bomb, to Elizabeth Poole, hockey songs (to share), the ability to not look down and lots of smiles, to Lisa, I leave patience and luck in cheering, a date book and my address, to Kristi, fun times and a Dapper Dan poster, to Wally, luck in football and luck in surviving the 'burg' one more year, to Charles, I leave humbleness and my singing ability (however good that is?), to Sarah, I leave toleration and my grades, to Libby and Mary Roberts, I leave happiness through their high school years.

I, Mark Simpkins, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my hill-climbing ability to Jay Skinner.

I, Timmy Christopher, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave a set of elevator shoes to Stacey Wheeler, a nice toupee to help Mr. Terry keep his head warm on cold days, and a custom fitted strait jacket to Mrs. Wrong.

I, Jeannine Atalay, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Kristi Fu, a surprise in the second drawer and my collection of easy listening music; to Retsy, a black pearl earring in white gold setting and a book on how to be Two P.; to Poolee, a Stevie doll and a Box Seat, to Pam, a fish dinner, blup! blup! blup!; to Libby, a new pair of snappy shades and blueprints for operation "K"; to Levie, some pink lemonade and a road map to Charlottesville; and to Michael, the best of luck in the next three years.

I, Lance Ellis, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my good looks and all the ladies to my brother, Scott, and all of my football, baseball, and track talents to future teams.

I, Mark Durcan, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Mr. Burch, a cartoon in his name, to some lucky underclassman, the editorship of the quasi-underground paper, The Spotlight, and to the freshman/sophomore lunch table, kamikaze tater-tots.

I, Greg Stoker, being of sound mind and body do hereby leave to the following classes of James Monroe my sincere condolences for the hardships they must endure in the years ahead.

I, Peggy Stout, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Carol Pinschmidt, all of my old tests, and to the rest of the people, all the luck in the world.

I, Victoria Roberts, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Lisa Hylton, a spare key to my Rabbit; to Kristi, my quickness with the clutch; to Judson Sokol, a dishwasher to keep his shoes in; to Poolee, I leave the honorable position of chairman (person) to Daddy's Caddy Club so that she may cruise to WFLS in style; and to Meatball, I leave my love and all the good times I've had at J.M. (I love you and I'm going to miss you more than anyone.)

I, Jackie Taylor, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to the future classes of James Monroe, the key to all types of knowledge to strive and complete the last years of high school.

I, Liz Steele, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Earl T. Blalock, a fifth of rum and an excusable absence; to Robert Bruch, a 40 lb., 6 ft. rabbit.

I, Lisa Childress, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to all of my friends the memories of the good times we had at J.M., and to some unfortunate person, my dirty locker.

I, Tammye Thornton, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Jim Woodward, my seat in band; to Angie Griffin, a book of 101 ways to drive Mr. Jordan crazy on and off the field; to Helene Bundy and Devena Byrd I leave our Senior Table in lunch and the secrets to making it through one more year.

I, Daphne Tipton, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Jean Metz, a full tank of gas and all the luck next year; to Mr. Jordan, all my music, concert and marching. I would also like to leave good luck to the first trumpet player that hits high C in 'The Star Spangled Banner'.

I, Scott Acey, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my sister, Leigh, a match and a gallon of gasoline to use as she pleases; to Jeff Haney, a giant P.K.! Use it well, Jeff. To Carolyn Cocke, I leave the memories of summers at the pool, springs in New York, and especially, the wild times we had on stage and in the classes we had together. To Coach Lanford, I leave two points in next years Regional Playoff game.

I, Beverly Todd, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to my brother, Mike, all of the letters from K.S. that he was always trying to read; to Daphne Tipton, all of the school cafeterias "live lunches" that she can eat; to Mary Duffy, a room full of shoes to draw; to Gail Granquist, my typewriter and a woodpecker to remind her of a good friend; to Sheri Jones, all of my chemistry homework, my sword, and the reminder to "let it not deport from thine eyes . . . Then shalt thou walk in thy way safely, and they foot shall not stumble." Last of all, to all present and future students, the exhortation I leave is this: "Those in the faith, work, for that day is nigh and ye know not what hour He shall come, so look for His appearing. And those without, look to Him," for He is your only hope.

Last will, con't.

I, Winnie Stone, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Robyn Ramer, all the luck in the world with Buddy and all the good times at ODU; to Dean Holland, all the luck and happiness in the world; to Covell Thompson, all the fun we've had together; to Elizabeth Poole, all her love affairs; and to Theresa and Valerie Boutchyard, the days of "me, Tres, and Val."

I, Janet Anderson, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Frankie Wheeler, one bottle of L.B. and the best of luck in basketball next year; to Val Rosbach, one Jenos frozen pizza and a pair of knee and elbow pads, and a crash helmet; and to Little Ellwood, a bag of giant balloons, and a water faucet close by.

I, Steve Garnett, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to the future advanced chemistry classes, one box of matches, a bunsen burner, 10 feet of rubber hose, and my vast knowledge of the subject.

I, Robyn Payne, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Levie Smith, the Philosophy (with a few small changes) and a roadtrip to Richmond, to Kristy Simmons, a roadtrip to Tiki Tiki and all of the love and loyalty a friend can give.

I, Liz Barton, being of sound mind and body, (due to attending the world reknowned James Monroe High School), do most gladly leave these ancient environs for "bigger and better things." Yet, before I depart for the lauded college life, I shall impart these pearls of my acquired wisdom: Above all — "to thine own self be true." Accept yourself exactly as you are and stand strong for what you believe in; never allow someone else's philosophy to overtake your own — a square peg in a round hole and all of that. Secondly, always hold fast to your dreams, hopes, and ambitions; without these you have nothing to strive for and will deceive yourself that you could be content to drive up and down the streets of Fredericksburg, drinking Iron City beers, forever. And lastly, though you will "celebrate" upon occasion, keep partying in its proper perspective — do that which must be done, then afterward, have fun, have fun! Good luck!

I, Robbin Walker, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave all the future classes of James Monroe, all the success in the world.

I, Mary Bogle, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Mr. Thomas, a gavel; to the future James Monroe students, my list of hiding places and the hope that some day the teachers here will give as much respect as they expect to receive.

I, Kevin Boxley, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Shelton Johnson, my hand which he likes to shake every time he sees me; and to Lloyd Watts and Julian Bumbrey, my cool image which they would love to have.

I, Anthony Brown, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave the peace of mind I found from my teachers and friends.

I, Cindye Brown, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to the future classes of James Monroe High School my personal key to unlock all closed doors.

I, Chris Bruce, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to future classes, the chance to play football and the chance to get a good education.

I, Gary Mastin, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to the future classes, my collection of JP Albums and my leather with the hope that they know how to use them.

I, Carl Schmidt, being of sound mind and body would like to be totally forgotten.

I, Melissa Maynard, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to T.S., my luck; to Molliester, a cig, and daisy; to L.S. I leave potato chips, a coke, and some "A"; to my brother, Matt, a mirror and a brush; to Winnie, a twinkie; to Mr. T., a toupee; to Mrs. M., a stapler; to Kelly, jelly beans; to Bambi, all the luck with J.T.; to C.D., pack of eggs; to Mr. Burch, an essay on polyester pants; and to Mr. T., a gavel.

I, Lepha Sears, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Becky, a few short lessons on how to con people and my good ole parking space; to Jan, a pair of gold "basaball choose" to get her where she's goin'; to poms, I leave the "Fresh Craks" sign we took and a map of Spotsy; to Molly/Ester, I leave the memory of a rockin summer and a proposal from Roy. Congratulations! Mr. Blalock, I leave all the trouble I ever got in.

I, Sharron Davies, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Devena, 32 slices of ham, and to Angie, a copy of Fantastic Voyage.

I, Mark Shepherd, being of sound mind and body do hereby leave memories of me.

I, Richard Carson, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to the future drummers, the best of luck in getting new drums.

I, Kevin Poole, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Darryl Coleman, my quarterbacking abilities, and don't be a super hero.

I, Theresa Skinner, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to future classes the best of luck throughout their high school days and in the future.

I, Michelle Durante, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my ability to smile through anything.

I, Chris Duggins, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave Joey "Pretty Boy" Mastin, a comb; to Sue Matthews, my shaved angle for her to tape, and a lot of fond memories.

I, April Pastell, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Paula Mason, all the luck that I had making it through my senior year.

I, Page Downer, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave a new track surface.

I, Tracey Smith, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my personality, kindness, looks, musical ability, and harem.

I, Fred Minor, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave more parking spaces, crowded halls, and Cold/Hot classrooms.

I, Donnell Sparks, being of sound mind and body do hereby leave to Tracie and Dean, all the love and luck; to Frankie Wheeler, the best of luck in art and with Johnny Johnson; to Nancy McMillen and Mark Surles, the strength to carry on.

I, Debbie Catlett, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Mr. Burch, a banana; to Susan, good luck; and to J.H., a star.

I, Gary O'Kelley, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Don Beckwith, my ragged out Chevelle; to Mark Maxfield, my jam system, including power booster and four triaxle speakers.

I, Wendy Cheek, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Stephanie Altman, a 12 oz. jar of mustard, and S.E. as your next to best neighbor to take my place; to Stephanie Peyton, Robbie B., Tommy B. and a reserved seat at Micky D's to watch the guys drive around.

I, Ronnie Davis, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Lee Anne Lawrynas, a lot of good memories and a trashy locker.

I, Suzanne Danielson, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my brother.

I, Jeff Haney, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Dr. Comerford, an obnoxious physics class; to Scott Acey (alias Dr. P.K.) a series of distemper shots.

I, John Reynolds, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to my brother, David, the wonderful reputation I've built up with my teachers, my room and my telephone; to Wally and Chris L. I leave the high jumping pit; and to Don, the crooked bar.

I, Angie Harding, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to Sephanie P., an Italian Stallion; to my sister, Crystal, a Byrd and Killer; and to Shelton "Stud", lots of luck!

I, Keith Rice, being of sound mind and body do hereby leave to Don Beckwith, my fake I.D. and my stuck 4-wheel drive; to Steve Daley, my 32 oz. mug and a pile of T.M. hits for future J.M. parties; and to J.M., my geometry grades. Keep 'em.

I, William R. Wilson, Jr., being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my three cousins, Pamela, Michael and Roderick, all my text books, notes, my lunch pass, and all my best wishes for their success in their upcoming junior and senior years at J.M.H.S. To all my friends, especially Allison Williams, I leave a key which hopefully, in time, will unlock a bright and promising future.

MR. HALL'S fourth period advanced government class participates in mock congress.

Last but not least

I, Tom Hughes, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my permanently borrowed TI-30 to Dr. C's chemistry class; to Mrs. Atalay, my superior guidance knowledge; and to the baseball team a few more victories.

I, Tracey L. Musselman, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave a puntakin stick to David Denton, good luck with women to Don Hicks, my nickname of Larry in Mr. Burch's class to Karan Bowen, and lots of love and memories to Mark Geslock.

I, Rosa Lassiter, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to my sisters, Nashay and Sonya, the ability to do well in school no matter how complicated it may be. To all my friends I leave my ability to get along with others. I would also like to leave J.M. with all of my craziness and most of all I leave with a B-I-G smile. (Hurry!)

I, Keith Lee, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave my #9 football jersey and all its legendary moments on the field to Joey Mastin and that it might be worn with dignity.

I, Liz McMillen, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave all the love, luck and happiness of the next 3 years to my little sister, Nancy. To my closest "step-sister", Mary Moulton, I leave one extra large band-aid and the responsibility of keeping Denysl out of trouble. To Mary Stofko, one wire coat hanger; to Dean and Tracie, all the happiness in the world; and to all my fellow seniors the desire to strive for the best in all the years to come.

I, Troy Westman, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave to the next senior class and all senior classes during the eighties, G.S., James Monroe's second professional student; Dr. Comerford, a tube of Dentu-Grip for those temper tantrums; Mr. Burch, a tall rabbit; Mr. Cralle, a sense of humor like Charles Gravatt's; and Greg S., an arm to replace the one hanging in Heorot.

ANN CARTER LEE HALL at Mary Washington College is the location of the prom. Students try to catch the cool night breezes from the balcony of the ballroom.

Rings on their fingers and being on their toes: the class of '82

THE SYMBOL of being a junior: the class ring.

"MRS. A." ponders over her notes for her U.S. history class.

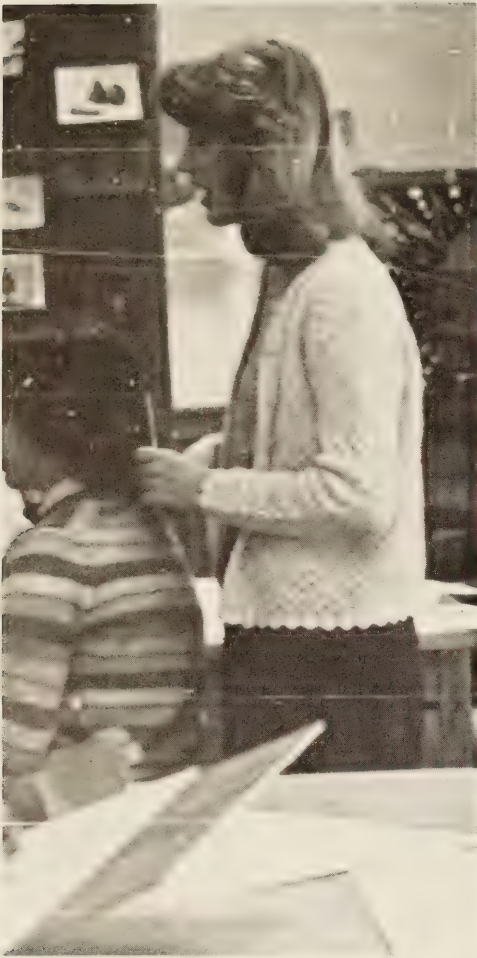

MR. CARTER prepares another joke-filled lecture for his students.

Finally an upperclassman!

"The seniors can't last forever! We're next!" explained a member of the Class of 1982.

Junior year means — besides finally getting some respect from the underclassmen — getting to go out to lunch, going out to lunch and being late to Mr. Burch's class, taking the SAT's, getting the scores back and finding a college to fit them, looking at colleges or the military, getting the class ring, paying for the class ring, losing the class ring two weeks later, playing varsity sports, no more gym, harder classes, paying your Junior dues and selling candy to put on a good prom, going to the prom, yelling "Dead Bug!" to the Junior Varsity Hockey Team, having Mr. Burch for English and Mrs. Armstrong for History and Mr. Bill for Chemistry — and waiting to become a senior. At graduation of the class of 1981 finally realizing you are a senior!

Sophomoric (saf e mor ik) adj. of, like, or characteristic of a sophomore or sophomores, often regarded as self-assured, opinionated, etc. though immature.

Webster's dictionary was challenged by the class of 1983 at James Monroe. The Sophomores answered the question: What events, ideas, teachers, and classes define being a sophomore at James Monroe? The Class of 1983 showed their pride and abilities as they defined "sophomoric."

Being a step above the freshmen.

Being a sophomore means the last possible year of playing J.V. sports and the last year of messing around in gym.

Getting your learner's, dates, cars, dances!

Two more years of high school left.

Being 16.

Finally being older than someone in the school.

Driving!

Waiting one more year to leave school for lunch: holding in a Big Mac attack.

You have been at J.M. a year, and you know what is coming up and what is going on and what to do if it happens. This is your last year to "play around" because next year you really have to think about what you are going to do with the rest of your life.

You're an "underclassman," meaning you're not allowed to go to the prom without an upperclassman.

It's fun.

A sophomore means that you should be aware of high school but not fully adjusted to it yet — but you are on your way.

SOPHOMORES clap their hands to win the spirit contest at the Park View pep rally.

Fresh and Spunky

The Class of 1984 answered the question: "What events, ideas, teachers, and classes define being a Freshman at James Monroe?"

Although "the low man on the totem pole," the Freshmen had high hopes for next year and being above the Class of 1985. Here are some of the answers the class of 1984 gave to the question:

A Freshman at James Monroe means going through the halls during hockey season and praying that an upperclassman does not yell "Dead Bug!"

The Freshmen at J.M. are supposedly low and not very honored and must adhere to what the seniors and such say. The sophomores may push and Juniors too, but we can still stay together. It isn't too bad.

Being a Freshman at J.M. is sort of hard the first month or so. The upperclassmen are hard on you. If you don't know where a class is, they will take you to the wrong class.

It's like being the youngest in the family, but the only thing is you don't get your way!

Simply your first year here.

We're the smartest (and most modest) class coming through J.M. in a long time!

Only HEARING about a Burch test. Having older people smile at you kindly when you make a boo-boo.

As a Freshman I assume many responsibilities that I have never encountered before, but with my athletic and intellectual abilities I am able to cope with my new position.

Being below Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors is a strenuous but necessary position.

DAVID LEOTARD, the exchange student from Frejus, France, plays a mean game of indoor hockey in Mr. Celloway's gym class.

WORLD HISTORY class listen to Mr. Waddel's lecture.

BROOKE THOMPSON studies the moves of an opponent during a gymnastics meet.

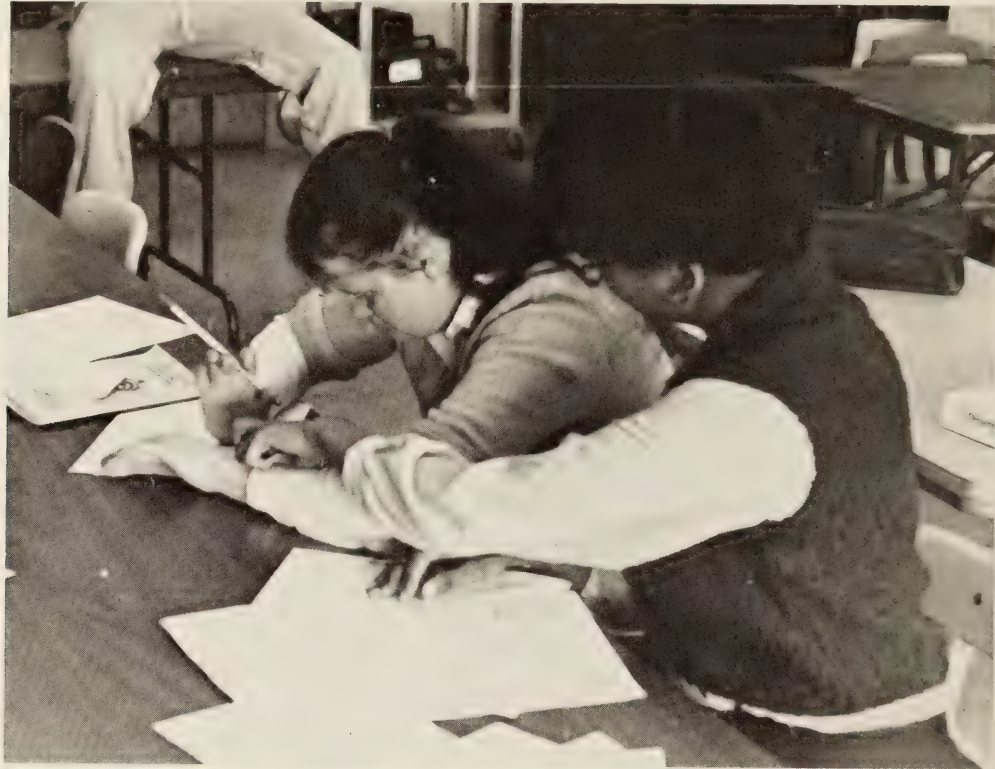

A FALLEN NET gives the freshman player an easy spike during a volleyball game.

FROM AN UPSTAIRS window of the school the yearbook's photographer catches Mr. Blalock, assistant principal, bringing donuts for hungry teachers.

WINDOW WATCHING from the science lab, a student can watch the progress of the new wing of Mary Washington Hospital.

What's UP Outside Of James Monroe?

Just when the teacher's voice droned on, students found the windows — and what was outside — a fascinating object for study. This year the distractions outside the walls of James Monroe were many. Everybody was constructing objects to keep the student's attention from the black (green) board. Spotsylvania Mall opened, creating jobs or just a good place to walk and browse on a rainy day. Students also tried out for jobs at the new Taco Bell — if you could pronounce "Burrito" with a good imitation Spanish accent.

Architects wandered around James Monroe, inspecting the building and getting it ready for renovation. The floor tiles came up in the new wing, but soon the entire building would be freshened up with new paint and a new addition.

TACO BELL! Students watched the growth of the new taco fast food joint: a new place to go when Hardee's and MacDonald's just weren't what they wanted.

ART STUDENTS GET OUTSIDE the walls of the art room to sketch and enjoy the weather.

FBLA MEMBERS enjoy the weather while running the March of Dimes Sports-a-thon.

What Was UP at James

Every school year starts with things up in the air: wondering whether your best friend will be in the same math class or if you will have the same lunch shift, the suspense of finding out where your locker is — and forgetting the combination after Christmas break. With new books, notebooks, pencils, pens, and a new pair of stiff Levi's to wear in, school started.

It was hot! A tropical heat wave hit unairconditioned James Monroe. Students watched the temperature flash 105° . . . 112° on the bank thermometer across the street. Fans whipped around and students competed for a breeze.

The trees turned golden, scarlet, brown, and then bare as students turned the leaves of their textbooks. Football season was in full swing and the Jacket's varsity football team had a winning season, although for the second year in a row they found one can be the loneliest number — the regional playoffs were lost by one point.

In October a new principal joined

James Monroe, Mr. Robert DeRonda, from New York. Mr. Garnett, assistant superintendent, had been acting principal since Dr. Thomas Debolt had left.

In November the United States held an election and a new president, Ronald Reagan, governed the nation. Mrs. Armstrong's history classes held an election in which Mr. Reagan won. Students were interested in government as they participated in mock congress and moot court.

Not all of the world was running smoothly: John Lennon was shot, Ronald Reagan was shot, and Pope John Paul was shot. Students and teachers at James Monroe wore green ribbons to show their sympathy for the murdered children in Atlanta. Closer to home, the school had a series of bomb threats and students waited outside while the school was checked; luckily the threats were false alarms.

What else was up at James Monroe? The band worked hard and raised the money to travel to Atlanta, Georgia for the World Music Conference and the Peach Bowl. The chorus and the Monroe singers worked hard to be able to fly to Frejus, France, Fredericksburg's sister city. The juniors put together the funds to produce the prom. Fund raising was a fact to be faced for all the clubs and activities around the school as money was tighter and scarce, but students just worked harder to get to their destination.

From the smiles brought by the National Honor Society's delivery of Valentine carnations to being honored at Honor's Evening for being an "Outstanding" student in your grade or a James Monroe Scholar to showing off your "Sights and Sounds" on the evening of the fine arts festival to joining the alphabet soup of clubs and organizations (FBLA, GAA, FCA, SGA, VICA, DE, FHA, HERO) James Monroe students, administrators, teachers, aides, secretaries, custodial and cafeteria workers joined in to make 1980-1981 an "up" year.
